

Effective governance for board members and executives

Winter workshop 2017

Tuesday 5 December 2017 – London

Boards have the ultimate responsibility for ensuring the effective governance of their business. In the housing sector's modern era this has become significantly more important. Executive teams and Board Members have a crucial role to play in developing strategy for discussion, ensuring business control and maintaining good relations with stakeholders.

What will delegates learn?

- The skills and behaviours essential to effective governance
- Good practice, not just in the housing sector, but also what we can learn from others
- How to work as a board and with your board to ensure the highest quality governance
- How to develop and maintain that essential 'chemistry' between board and executive that supports effective governance
- How to tackle particular issues with your board.

People who will benefit from attending this course are:

- Board Members
- Chief executives
- Managing directors
- Executive directors
- Company secretaries
- Governance managers.

Our trainer:

Michael Guest has extensive experience as a consultant and training of governance in the housing and other sectors. He has advised and supported organisations in their effective governance and provided well-received training and coaching to develop the board member and executive role. Michael has held governance and top leadership positions in the housing sector and is Vice Chair of Governors at a school and an 'additional skills' governor available for other schools. He is well known for his approachable and participative style of training, ensuring that learning is retained and can be applied in practice.
