Unlocking investment – emerging funding solutions for housing

Wednesday 15 November 2017 | Manchester

The pressure is on to build more homes. But with funding from government at a premium, housing associations and local authorities are seeking new solutions to kickstart development programmes. Much has been made of the new housing finance models entering the market but behind the headlines what do these companies actually do and how can they help social housing providers deliver the homes we so desperately need?

At this event delegates will hear direct from five leading companies looking to invest billions in the UK's affordable housing sector.
