

Programme

Digitising governance and compliance

Wednesday 18 September 2019 | London

Housing organisations are transforming the way they operate to become more digital to meet customer expectations and improve the speed and efficiency in which services are provided.

At this one-day seminar, we look at how the housing environment is becoming more disruptive and demanding and explore possible solutions to help governance and compliance professionals stay ahead of the game.

- |  |  |
|--|--|
| 10:00 Registration  | 12:45 Embedding oversight and governance into fire risk assessmentsJason Hill, Founder, The Fire Safety Scheme |
| 10:30 Chair's welcome and introductionAlistair McIntosh, HQN   | 13:15 Lunch   |
| 10:40 Towards digitised compliance in the built environmentDr Tom Beach, Cardiff University and Digital Compliance Research Network  | 14:05 Can better meetings lead to more effective governance?Alan Hewitt, NED, Praxonomy                        |
| 11:20 Why every property needs a digital system of recordMatt Hodges-Long, Co-founder, TrackMyRisks  | 14:35 Using AI and IoT data to monitor property performanceStephen Chadwick, CEO, Shepherd                     |
| 12:00 Refreshments and networking   | 15:05 Risk modelling using open dataClifford McDowell, CEO/Founder, Doorda                                     |
| 12:15 Learning from Grenfell: Reality, compliance and leadership (video presentation). Followed by Skype Q&AGill Kernick, International Safety Consultant and former Grenfell Tower resident | 15:35 Closing remarksAlistair McIntosh, HQN  |
|  | 15:45 Close   |