

Programme

Protecting the housing sector from cyber attacks – a PwC workshop Wednesday 20 January 2021

HQN is delighted to be teaming up with PwC for a workshop looking at cyber security in the housing sector.

With cyber fraud on the rise and housing providers being targeted, this 90-minute virtual session will outline how organisations might respond to common attacks such as ransomware and attempts of cyber fraud, now and in the future.

The PwC team will be sharing their insight and experience into what responding to cyber security incidents looks like in reality, whilst highlighting what new threats and risks are challenging the housing sector currently.

The session will also provide some useful hints, tips and immediate next steps towards reducing cyber risk exposure.

The event will be delivered by PwC Patrick Wreglesworth, Gabriel Currie and Nick Spray

14:50 Registration

15:00 Welcome and introductions
Alistair McIntosh, CEO, HQN

15:05 Your challenges

15:15 The current climate

15:30 The threat landscape

16:00 Specific considerations for housing organisations

16:10 Initial steps and questions

16:30 Close
Alistair McIntosh, CEO, HQN