

Programme

The future of the UK housing market: understanding the impact of 2020 on housing options and affordability Tuesday 19 January 2021

How have consumers' attitudes, behaviours and finances changed as a result of the events of 2020 and what are the implications for their housing choices and the future of the UK housing market?

These are key questions housing providers face when working out their future business plans and development strategies especially when deciding what to build, where to build and who the homes are for.

10:20 Registration and HQN Welcome

10:30 Welcome from Chair
Jon Land, HQN

10:35 Prospects for the UK housing market in 2021 and beyond
Neal Hudson, Director, Residential Analysis

11:10 Break

11:20 How have consumers attitudes, behaviours and finances changed due to Covid, and what implications will this have on their housing choices and the housing market?

Joel Abbey, Client Director, CACI and Paul Langston, Head of Citizen Services, CACI

12:15 Final Q&A
Jon Land, HQN

12:30 Close